FOREWORD

I had never planned to write a Memorial Book to the people of Koden. In 1976 my father asked me to compose a family tree of his Szeynersnayder relatives as my present to him on his 50th wedding anniversary. He was born in Koden and knew the names of his grandparents and all his uncles and aunts so I started writing a chart using the information he and many relatives, especially, Bella Szeynersznayder Fishman (his first cousin), provided to me. Bella knew the sisters and brothers of the grandparents but that was as far back as I could go. Then I attended the first meeting of the Jewish Genealogical Society in New York City and discovered that the Latter Day Saints (Mormons) had recorded the records of Koden (1826-1854=#0813,999, 0813,400. All these records were in written Old Polish ). I ordered the films (which were indexed) and found my family. I started doing the research beginning with the year 1826. Not knowing who would end up in my family I recorded every birth, the names and ages and occupations of parents, and did the same for the marriage and death certificates. This took me back to my father's great-great grandparents, Mordko and Rifka Szeynersznayder (born circa 1773) and their son, Icko (Issac), born 1795 in Koden and his wife, Bayla Sura, born 1797.

About 5 years later the LDS Church released more records of Koden (1855-1875 & 1889= #1496655, 1496654. However in 1868 the records became written Old Russian). I translated the records to 1867 and studied and practiced reading Old Russian for one year. When I could read some names I copied the records of my family and asked someone to translate them. I discovered Bayla Sura's death certificate in 1860, she was born in Koden in 1797 and her parents were Gedalia and Maryem. Gedalia is not a common name in Koden. I decided if I could find another man or woman with the same parents names I could discover Bayla Sura's surname. It meant translating the remaining 500+ records from Russian. There were a few years that were indexed and my brother, Bernard Schneider, M.D. found a translator for me and helped finance the index translation. But I found it impossible to translate the documents. I mentioned my problem to a librarian in Budd Lake, New Jersey and she knew of many newly arrived Russians who were living in the area. She mentioned my dilemma to a handsome, young, Russian engineer, Arkady Kotylar, who came to my rescue and translated all the documents. I will be forever grateful to him. Incidentally of all the 4000+ documents no one had a father, Gedalia and a mother, Maryem.

Now I discovered I had a data base of 4000+ names of every Jew who was born, married and died in Koden 1826-1875 & 1889. [I learned that the records 1810-1825 (#0813992, 0813993) were mixed with the Catholic records and the Jews did not have surnames registered before this time but I translated the records anyway. Someday, census or other documents may come forth and help determine the surnames. There were 295 Jewish surnames in these films.] All records from 1888 to the present time are held in the Koden Archives. I have written to them, in Polish, several times and never received an answer. In 1986 Dawn Lazarus visited Koden and tried to obtain documents but could not locate the Archives. I am grateful to her for the pictures of Koden included in this book.

With all this data that I had amassed I decided to group all the names into families and write a Memorial book to those who had lived in this town for over 200 years. (ATTENTION: *** precedes a name that I believe belongs to a family of the same surname. I have no proof.) I had followed families through their marriages, births of their children and deaths of their children, and grandchildren. A cholera epidemic in 1873 killed so many I was saddened to see families decimated. Writing this Memorial Book has been especially hard, when I knew that in 1939 all the descendents of these families that remained in Koden were to be killed. I have contacted Yad Vashem, the Holocaust Memorial and advertised in the Jerusalem Post to locate the names of those who may have died in 1939. If anyone reading this knows of others whom I have not listed, I would like to know their names. Many of the families have survived because a son or daughter left to make a new life on distant shores. That is the triumph of the Jews of Koden.

Many thanks to Harry Mayo who guided me through the use of Wordperfect, Roots3 & 4, and fixed all the glitches on my computer. I would have given up years ago without Harry. My most fervent thanks to, Bob, my husband, who has put up with my moods while I tried to master Polish and Russian and who has endured many evenings as I rambled on about families that lived in the 18th and 19th centuries. Thank you, Bob, it was really appreciated.

KODEN

Koden, once a city, now a village lies on the left bank of the Bug River, in Poland, about 10 miles south of Brzesc and 26 miles from the border town of Terespol (the crossing point to Brzesc and the Belarus Republic). The town is pronounced "KAW-dane" by the Polish people and pronounced "KUD-na" by the Jews who once lived there. (The city got its name from a battle cry, TO DEN;" IT'S THE DAY ", later corrupted to KODEN.) It was founded in 1511 by the Sapieha family, famous in Polish history.

The village houses a Seminary and is known for a painting OUR LADY OF GUADELUPE (now OUR LADY OF KODEN), which was pilfered from Rome in the 17th century.

According to Polish sources, the village in 1864 was home to 1,588 Christians, 792 "Old Testamentarians" (Jews), 9 brick and 251 wooden houses. In 1939 there were 541 Jews living in Koden. All were led out of town by the Nazis, and shot. If any managed to get across the border to Russia and escape, no one I have contacted has ever heard from them. The Jewish cemetery is no more. The Nazis used all the tombstones to put on the dirt roads so their tanks could travel easier. What remains is a large empty field (fenced in by the Polish government).

From the records that I have translated, I know a few more facts about the Jews of Koden. Koden was a 'service' community of Brzesc and the surrounding larger cities. Most of the tradesmen were tailors, furriers, shoemakers, etc. Their records start in 1810 but I have determined that they were living in Koden as early as 1725. They intermarried with the towns of Biala Podlaski, Brzesc, Terespol, Lomazy, Radzyn Podlaski, Miedzyrzec Podlaski, Slawatycze, Wisznice, Wlodawa, Janow Podlaski, Kobrin and Domacheva. In 1855 the death toll was triple the average. I have no idea if it was the result of disease or a pogrom. The years 1865-66-67 very few births, marriages and deaths were recorded. The next few years all the vital records from those years were entered. Whether the reason for this was political turmoil, or war, I don't know. Then in 1873 there was a cholera epidemic that tripled the number of deaths in the Jewish community. These facts are all I know about the history of all the Jewish families that lived and died in Koden. Hopefully, the information that I am supplying will help others to bring additional facts to light.

1891-1982

Bella was born on March 25, 1891, in Koden, the firstborn of Gedalia and Rebecca (Gruman) Szeynersznayder. Her brother, Murray, was born later on. She was ten years old when she, her father, and brother went to live with her paternal grandparents, Chaskiel and Bryna Szeynersznayder.

Chaskiel and Bryna, originally, had a dairy farm outside of Koden. Every Friday Chaskiel went to town for mitzvah. One time as he was coming home he saw a large fire in the direction of his farm. He arrived home to find his barn and home had burned. He had nothing. He moved to town and started a business. In the meanwhile he studied medicine from books loaned to him by a Christian Polish scholar. He was asked to come and practice in the big cities but he wanted to stay and help his town. Jews were not allowed to become doctors at that time. Many became Christians in order to practice medicine. Bella would go with Chaskiel to the big cities to buy medicine from the doctors. Although they had Christian names, Chaskiel would eat at their homes because they kept Kosher. Sometimes inspectors would come to check the Jewish homes. The Christian neighbors would hide Chaskiel's medicines in their homes until the inspectors left. Bella remembered helping her grandfather mix the medicines for his patients. His patients, both Polish and Jewish, were poor and could not afford to pay in cash, so they paid with their best meats and fruits. If there was a little money left at the end of the month, Bella was given money for candy. Chaskiel was always generous with the little he had. His brother, Meyer, had died many years before and Chaskiel would always send Bella to bring Shabbos food to his widow, Lea, who still lived in Koden.

Chaskiel died about 1902. Bella remembers her grandfather dying in the living room. All the neighbors and their children came to say goodbye. Chaskiel told Bella to go to the store and buy candles. She didn't want to leave but he said, "Go, my kinderel, go." She went and bought the candles and he said, "Light the candles". She did and he died at that moment. When Chaskiel died, Bella was twelve years old. Bryna worried about Bella's future and decided to send Bella to America with a relative, Avrumel Szeynersznayder from Brest (he had a candy shop in Newark). Bella would have to dress as a boy since Avrumel had bought tickets for his children (but his wife and children refused to go to America) so Avrumel took Bella and two others in their place. Bryna got the best velvets and gabardines and had the tailors make clothes for Bella so everyone in America would know she was "somebody." When Bella arrived in New York in 1903, she never wore her new clothes. She looked like a 'greenhorn'. She saw the clothes were so much different here that she cut up one dress and made a skirt and blouse. The other clothes hung unused.

Bella started working in the garment industry and after she had saved a week's salary, she bought a beautiful warm sweater to send to her grandmother, Bryna. Later when Murray, Bella's brother, came to America he told Bella that Bryna sent the sweater to her daughter in Wisnice, who was now a widow and expecting her 10th child.

LOUIS A. SCHNEIDER, M.D.
1901-1980

I was born on October 6, 1901 in a small town called Koden in Russia. My father, Ber Szeynersznayder, who was one of seven sons, had two sisters. My mother was Elka (Barlas).

My father's brothers were Itcha, Gedalia, Motel, Louis, Aaron (Harris Taylor) and Sqarya. The two sisters names were Bayla Sura and Simma. (The original name was Szeynersznayder, it was changed to Schneider in the United States.) All the brothers died in Russia, except my father, Aaron and Louis. What happened to their families I do not know. I assume if any lived to maturity they were killed in the Holocaust. One sister married a Rosenblum. Her three sons came to this country and believing their mother's family was extinct assumed their mother's family name of Snider (believing that was how the name was spelled.) I met two of the brothers in Chicago but they are all dead now. I believe one had a son in California who was an engineer but don't know what happened to him.

My Uncle Lou had one son who stayed in Koden with his mother. I sent him money to come to America but World War II broke out and we never heard from him and assume he is dead. Gedalia's children, Bella and Murray came to this country. Uncle Aaron first went to England and changed his name to Harris Taylor there. He came to America and lived in New York with his two sons and four daughters.

My father and his brothers were known throughout the entire area of Koden for the physical strength so in spite of the prevailing anti-semitism, no one locally ever attempted to disturb our family. My father because of his height and strength when drafted into the Russian Army served in the Czar's Battalion in Moscow, an honor that very few Jews attained. Upon his discharge, after four years, he received a silver medal and a certificate permitting him to travel throughout Russia without a passport- this was when most Jews were restricted to their immediate communities.

I must be frank to state that I absolutely do not recall my brother, William, or my sister, Gussie, before coming to America in 1908. We were living in my grandparents' home (Chaskiel and Bryna) while my father was in Service, and after he left for America in 1903. I do remember the house we lived in which was on a square that was used for bazaars. Across from us was a church in front of which was a tremendous tank on wheels that was used for fires. I remember the village well where everyone had to go for water. I remember my grandmother and my grandfather (although Bella said he died when I was too young to remember him). But in any event, I was very sick for a long period of time with whooping cough complicated by pneumonia and empyema. My grandfather was the village felsher, doctor although he had no degree but he could read Latin and dispensed medicine. He could not help me and I was sick for nearly two years with high temperatures. The nearest large city was too far away to go for diagnosis. Eventually I overcame the illness. X-rays taken at Columbia-Presbyterian now show that I had tuberculosis empyema. Tuberculosis was prevalent in my father's family. I recall that my grandfather, Chaskiel, had a continuous cough and probably died of TB. Gedalia died at a very young age of TB, Motel died of TB, Sqarya who was a captain in the Russian Army and fought in the Japanese-Russian War died of TB, Murray, Gedalia's son, who lived in the grandfather's house, died of TB.

But now I go on with my life. My father sent for us to join him in America and I sort of remember the trip across the ocean. My father met us and took us to Bayonne where we moved into an apartment house on the corner of 20th Street and Hudson Avenue. Shortly after I was registered in school. There is no sense in going into the trials of attending school with no knowledge of the language—the names I was called, the fights I had. Conditions were bad, my father was a carpenter earning seventeen dollars a week and working a forty-eight hour week.
