Background

Russia began compiling Revizskie Skazki (singular is Revizskaya Skazka or Revision List) in 1719. These censuses, which were used to levy poll taxes, continued intermittently through the 18th and 19th centuries. The first list was created in the years 1719-1721. Subsequent Lists were in 1743-1747, 1761-1767, 1781-1782, 1794-1795, 1811, 1833-1834, 1850-1851, and 1857-1859. Supplements were taken in intermediate years, most notably 1806, 1816-1817, and 1874.

When Poland was partitioned in the 1790s, the Kremenets District became part of the Russian Empire and Revision List activity began in the District with the 5th Revision of 1794-1795 and its 1806 Supplement. The Kremenets Revizskie Skazki are stored at the Ternopil State Archives in Ternopil, Ukraine. They are accessible to researchers.

Between 1999 and 2001, the Mormons microfilmed the Revision Lists for the Kremenets District stored in the Ternopil Archives. The result is 54 microfilm reels containing data from the Lists and Supplements between 1806 and 1874. Here is the description from the LDS' Family History Library:

Record group 37, series 2, files 149-151, 156-199. 54 microfilm reels.

Revision lists (census lists used to levy a poll tax) (7th-10th revision) for Kremenets district, Volhynia province, Russia; later in Ternopil oblast, Ukraine. The lists contain the names of all taxable persons from each city, town, village or estate arranged by household, giving the relationship to the head of house and ages. Many of the lists also include supplemental lists made in years following the initial revision (e.g. revision lists for 1816 may include supplemental lists dating from between 1817 and 1834). Text in Russian.

The microfilms became available in 2003.

The Lists for each year are arranged successively by town name, social class, and the order in which households were recorded. Each double page (household males on the left page, females on the right page) is numbered. Most pages have more than one record, sometimes as many as eleven. The first reel includes an "index" that identifies which social classes are on each reel. There is no other index to the Lists or the microfilms.

Identifying and Obtaining the Jewish Records

Obviously, these records are invaluable to our genealogical activities. At the IAJGS Conference in Salt Lake City in July 2007, I combed through the Index on the first reel of microfilm trying to determine which reels contain data for social classes that might include Jews. We know that Jews were not nobility, gentry, clergy, cossacks, native peoples, or peasants. The most likely social classes are merchants (kupetsiy), bourgeois (meshchaniniy), artisans (remeslennikiy), and, of course, Jews (Yevreyskii). They also might be in the agriculturist (zemledel' cheskiy), citizens (grazhdoniy), or honorary citizens (pochetnyy grazhdaniniy) classes. The most likely social classes are on 13 reels of microfilm. We scanned through each of these 13 reels, identifying the page numbers that contain Jewish households in the "most likely" social classes. It was fairly easy to identify a Jewish household. If the given names were Peter, Pavel, Ivan, Anton, etc, the household most likely was not Jewish. If the names were Yakov, Avraham, Menachem, Yitschak, etc. the household probably was Jewish (although the name Yakov appeared in non-Jewish households as well.). Here is the list of microfilm reels containing Jewish households, including the page numbers on which those households are recorded.

Thanks to the extraordinary volunteer work of SARA MAGES, SHEREE ROTH, and LARRY STEINHAUER, we estimate that there are about 13,000 microfilm frames containing about 40,000 records. I expect this will yield more than 100,000 names! And, keep in mind that these records are not just for the town of Kremenets. They are census records for most of the towns in the Kremenets District.

A New Project: The Kremenets Revision List Translation Project

Now we begin the task of translating and indexing the Revision List records. We will need volunteers to help on this new multi-year project.

- First, we need a Project Manager. Your duties will be to organize the translation effort, to obtain and manage volunteers, and to keep track of translation assignments. You should be able to use Excel or another spreadsheet and be able to upload and download files via the Internet. An ability to read Cyrillic handwriting (or to develop that ability) is desirable, but not essential.
- We need people who can read handwritten, 19th century Russian. We hope to use volunteers, supplemented by a professional translator. To do this work, you need to be able to read, but not necessarily translate, handwritten Cyrillic. You also must be willing to follow our transliteration guidelines for the spelling of given names and surnames. And, you should have some very basic skills in using Excel since you will enter your data into an Excel spreadsheet. Translation skill is a bonus, but not essential. We are developing a list of keywords and phrases that occur repeatedly in the Revision Lists. This will help you make sense of the records.
- After we do some of the translations we also will need volunteers to proofread the translated data to be sure the name entries and other data are correct and complete.

If you can help or if you have any questions, please contact me via e-mail at rondoctor@earthlink.net.

This is a massive project ... even larger than our vital records project. As you can imagine, it is VERY important, because it has the potential for stretching our family histories back to the early 1700s and it will serve as a bridge between the era of permanent surnames and the time periods when only patronymics were used.

If you can not help with one of the tasks I listed above, you still can help get the project done by donating to our Revision List Project Fund. Donations will be used strictly for hiring professional translators and for obtaining the three microfilms.
